Ex-Agent Is Sentenced People Injured by Falls Many Christmas Fires

FORMER CHARLEROI INSURANCE MAN IS SENTENCED TO WORKHOUSE TERM

John Boden Enters Plea and is Sent to Workhouse for Period of Ten Months.

EMBEZZLEMENT ALLEGED

Charged With Skipping With $700 of Funds From the Charleroi Office--Captured in Chicago Recently.

John S. Boden, a former agent for the Prudential insurance company, located at Charleroi, and engaged in his work along the river, where he was well known, entered a plea of guilty yesterday to the charge of embezzlement as an employee. He was sentenced to pay the costs, fine of $100 and to undergo imprisonment in the workhouse at Claremont for a period of 10 months. Boden asked that the court make the sentence a penitentiary sentence, but this request the court refused.

Judge Taylor remarked to the defendant that the court was of the opinion that he, the defendant, should be sent somewhere where he could work. The defendant stated he only made the request because he was "crippled." The court stated that at Claremont he could get lots of outdoor exercise.

At the time Boden, left Charleroi, he was an assistant superintendent for the Prudential company. He is a married man, has children and ran away with an actress, with whom he had become infatuated. After several months he was arrested in Chicago, where he was working as an elevated railway conductor. He was living under the name of "George W. Gale." The woman with whom he ran away was living with him. He was located through the Gogrove detective agency and was brought back from Chicago on December 9 by County Detective William McCleary.

Boden embezzled about $700 of the insurance company's money. He left Charleroi early in 1909. He went direct to Chicago. He first sold cheap jewelry for a living then went on the elevated line. He shaved off a mustache and wore a heavy dark wig to conceal his bald head.

The actress with whom he was living, bore a very unsavory reputation. She came from the McKeesport section, and it was by shadowing her to McKeesport, where she returned on a visit, that a clue was secured that finally located Boden. Boden has two married sons at Johnstown.

From what can be learned Boden has not been in trouble before, and he claims his downfall was due to having been led away by the actress.

SEVERALS PERSONS ARE HURT BY FALLS ON ICE

Slippery Pavements Result in Injury to Number of Charleroi People During Saturday and Sunday

Icy pavements were responsible for several persons being laid up with injuries Saturday and Sunday. Some were very seriously hurt by falls.

One of the most seriously hurt was Miss Grace Phillips, of North Charleroi, who after a fall on last Friday evening did not recover her right mind until last night. Seemingly rational enough up until that time she could not remember anything previous to the accident.

Fred Smith sustained a badly injured head in a fall and it was at first thought that his skull was fractured. He will recover.

Miss Irene Kimmell, daughter of Dr. D. E. Kimmell, fell Saturday night and was injured somewhat. An unknown woman of foreign descent fell Sunday at the corner of Fifth street and Fallowfield avenue, and cut her head severely.

Mrs. Orr of Ninth street and Oakland avenue, fell and broke her right arm.

ELABORATE CHRISTMAS PROGRAMS ARE RENDERED

Charleroi Churches Hold Special Holiday Services.

USUAL TREATS ARE GIVEN

Candy Distributed by Various Sunday Schools Among Their Pupils.

Christmas was quietly observed by Charleroi people, and church services were features. In all the churches programs more or less elaborate were carried out, manifesting the sentiment of the day. Treats were distributed to children of the various schools.

The most elaborate program was rendered at the First Presbyterian church last evening when a cantata "Santa's Mixup" was produced. Children of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school gave a Christmas entertainment last night and received their treat.

A cantata, "Blessed Morn," was rendered at Christ Lutheran church Sunday evening and the treat was given. The treat at the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church was given on Saturday evening, and on Sunday evening Christmas was commemorated with a special song service. The treat at the First Baptist church was given on Saturday afternoon and Rev. Joshua the pastor preached two Christmas sermons on Sunday. Services at St. J. Rome's Catholic church were featured by four masses, at 5:30, at 7:30 and at 10:30 o'clock. The treat was given to the children in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Sunday morning a special musical program was rendered by the choir of St. Mary's Episcopal church. Special masses were held at Mother of Sorrows' Italian Catholic church. The

Charleroi Water Company to Get After Youngsters Who Violate Rule

The Charleroi Water company, troubled by boys skating on the ice covering the water in the reservoir on the crest of the Fifth street hill, has given notice that prosecutions will follow trespassing hereafter on the property there. The ice is never strong and should a boy fall through, while skating, he would have little chance for life but would be sucked under and inward by the pipes reaching to the mains.

Six arrests were made on Christmas Monday by the police, four of them being foreigners engaged in a pugilistic debate on Seventh street following several rounds of liquid ammunition. The other two were for drunkenness. When the four battling foreigners were arrested two of them resisted, and at a hearing last night they were each fined $10 and costs by Burgess Risbeck. The other two are being held for a hearing later.

The couple left shortly afterward for Hagertown, Md., where they will visit briefly before returning to take up their residence here.

Both the bride and the groom belong to well known families. The groom is employed at the Leslie Campbell company, clothiers.

WANTS RAILROAD TO RETURN CASH FARES

Bunola Man May Bring Suit Against Pittsburg and Lake Erie as Result of Alleged Violation of Agreement

The Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad company filed suit yesterday against G. W. Peterson of Bunola, Pa., asking for an injunction to prevent him from bringing suit against the company for the recovery of cash fares paid by him while being hauled as a passenger. It is alleged since last March 2 actions were brought by Peterson and that he secured judgment. The amounts involved are so small that the company cannot appeal.

It is stated that in 1899 Peterson entered into an agreement with the McKeesport and Belle Vernon Railroad company, that in consideration of $1, the road agreed to carry him free over its lines. It is admitted that Peterson exhibited this agreement to the conductors, but that a cash fare was demanded. The company alleged that the agreement is now void. The plaintiff took over the lines of the road which made the agreement with Peterson.

CHARLEROI MAN CANDIDATE FOR INTERNATIONAL OFFICE

Assemblyman - Elect Feeney One of Miners' Tellers.

COUNTING TO BEGIN SOON

Indications Point to Election of White Over Lewis for Presidency.

Assemblyman-elect Wm. Feeney leaves tonight for Indianapolis where as one of the national tellers elected last year he will help canvass the vote of the United Mine Workers cast at the recent election. There are three national tellers, and it so happened that all were chosen from Pennsylvania. Besides Mr. Feeney, who was elected from the Pittsburg district, are Wm. Young of central Pennsylvania and Wm. Fitzsimmons of the anthracite regions. Mr. Feeney is the first candidate to be elected to a national office from the Pittsburg district by the United Mine Workers. At the election last year he received 54,900 votes. He is a candidate for re-election, and in all probability has been elected as his name was second in the list of candidates who were voted for at the recent election.

The result of the election will not be announced until the national convention of United Mine Workers at Columbus, Ohio, on January 17. Every indication points to the election of White, Hays and Green, respectively as president, vice president and secretary-treasurer. Mr. Feeney expect to finish up his work at Indianapolis in time to return to Harrisburg at the opening of the Legislative session, January 12.

Councilman Charles Schmieler and family took a trip to Pittsburg yesterday where they visited friends.

Sunnyside Distillery near Monongahela Suffers From Flames of an Unknown Origion.

VILLAGE IS WIPED OUT

Three Hundred People Rendered Homeless by Conflagration at Riverville--Bentleyville Store Burns.

Mystery surrounds the origin of a fire which destroyed the main building of the Sunnyside distillery at Elrama, this county, early Monday morning. The destroyed building was a four story brick structure, 150 feet long and 80 feet wide. It contained the distilling department, renovating rooms, bonding room, boiler and engine rooms. The flames were prevented from reaching an office building and ware house which contained a large amount of distilled liquor.

The fire started on the third floor of the building. The distilling company is controlled by Howe Bros. of Cincinnati, and the building is leased from Charles H. Jacobs. The loss is well covered by insurance. A member of the firm is expected to arrive from Cincinnati and the question of rebuilding the plant will probably be taken up at that time.

Riverville, a mining hamlet half a mile from Fredricktown was completely wiped out by fire Sunday and 300 people rendered homeless. Twelve double houses, 12 single ones and two large dwellings were destroyed, inflicting a loss of about $30,000. The fire is thought to have caught from a Christmas tree in one of the houses. The miners living in the hamlet were employed at one of the mines of the Vesta Coal company in the vicinity.

Fire at 2 o'clock Saturday morning of last week entirely destroyed the building and stock of clothing and shoes of Cortwell and Krapan, Main street, Bentleyville, with a loss of $6,000. An insurance of $3,000 was carried on the goods. Andrew Krull, who owned the building, had $1,400 insurance on it and $500 on the household goods. The building was valued at $2,000 and the stock at $6,000.

Sunday School Elects Officers for the Year

Whitlatch; secretary, Floyd Chalcraft; assistant secretary, Miss Grace Kaupp; librarian, Leroy Stephens; assistant librarian, C. O. Frye; organist, A. G. Lewis; assistant, Mrs. C. C. Wright.

Nobody Looney

Christmas has come and gone and if your purse is much lighter because of the holiday, your heart should also be in the same condition. No regrets should follow this spend-thrift season. You failed to count the cost before Christmas—you should not do it afterward. If you succeeded in making any one who is near and dear to you happy, the results is well worth the price paid. Self denial and sacrifice afterward in meeting the obligations incurred by judicious Christmas giving is a part of the pleasure of the giver.

The mild species of insanity that pervades the Christmas season should not be taken seriously. Nobody is really looney, but the spirit of liberality and recklessness that is so contagious at this particular time of the year is not permanent. It is a sort of intoxication from which the average person speedily recovers, and unlike some other forms of intoxication, the after effects are not pernicious. Instead they inspire the human heart and mind with better and noble instincts and inspirations, which serves to propagate and spread the gospel of love that is to make the whole world akin. The Christmas madness harms nobody and it spreads joy and happiness throughout the length and breadth of the land.

Give Him a Chance

Not a few of the newspapers of Pennsylvania have been fairly busy since the recent election giving advice and in other ways tendering liberally any assistance at their command to Governor-elect John K. Tener in whatever work he may have to perform in constructing his cabinet. Unhappily the editors of the State seldom get together when an important work is to be disposed of, and should Mr. Tener turn to the newspapers as a guide to his conclusion in regard to his cabinet he would be bewildered by the confusion of suggestions.

Naturally the editors of the State are deeply concerned in every action taken to be taken by the incoming Governor and fortunately the great majority of these Republicans have absolute confidence in the judgment and sound horse sense of the new Governor. They are, therefore, abundantly willing to have him select his own cabinet.

Citizens loyal to Pennsylvania will in the very nature of things be loyal to the incoming Governor just as they have been faithful with Gov. Edwin S. Stuart, the retiring Governor. Those who know Mr. Tener best are quick-witted to endorse him as capable, sincere and abundantly able to take up the State's responsibilities where they are laid down by Gov. Stuart. Governor-elect Tener is young and ambitious. He realizes that as Governor of one of the greatest States in the Union he will be constantly in the lime-light. He knows that he must excel or retire from his exalted position in the State to certain obscurity. Therefore he should have a free hand in selecting his official family as the conduct of each individual member of his cabinet will be his own personal responsibility. Just give the new Governor a chance and he is certain to do the rest and do that rest well.

Protection Needed

The sinking of a portion of a manufacturing plant at the county seat into an abandoned coal mine, calls attention to an economic subject that has heretofore been neglected by this State. This is taking steps to protect the surface of land that has been undermined for coal. Much damage has been done in various mining sections of the State and large areas of land have been rendered worthless and unproductive by the ground sinking and being broken up where the coal has been mined from underneath it. Other countries, Germany, for example, compels mining operators to put back the refuse from the mines into the abandoned cavities, in order to protect the surface of the land. So great has been the damage done in this State from this cause that the Republican State platform adopted at Harrisburg last June recommended that an investigation of the subject be made with an end that a remedy be provided. It is an important subject and should command public attention.

The Dinner Table of Old France.
Could we restore for half an hour the dinner table of old France and obtain half a dozen instantaneous photographs of a royal banquet at any era between the reign of Francis I. and Louis XIV. such laughter would be heard as might disturb the serenity of Louis in paradise. The duchess, her napkin tied securely around her neck, would be seen nibbling a bone, the noble marquis surreptitiously scratching himself, the belle marquise withdrawing her spoon from her lips to help a neighbor to sauce with it, another fair creature scouring her plate with her bread, a gallant courtier using his doublet or the tablecloth as a towel for his fingers and two footmen holding a yard of damask under a lady's chin while she emptied her goblet at a draft. All of these at one era or another were the usages of polite society. During a feast of indefinite length it was sometimes necessary to substitute a clean cloth for the one which the carelessness or bad manners of the guests had reduced to a deplorable condition.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Transformation.

They sat hand in hand on the yellow sands; in the shelter of a bowlder, watching the fleecy wavelets creep timorously shoreward.

"Frankie," she sighed, "say I'm oos ikle petrie once more."

"Oo's my ikle petrie, blessums ikle heart," came from the youth in the puce socks.

Up to the blue heavens rose a fat guffaw from the other side of the bowlder.

"Ikle petrie! Ikle petrie!" chuckled a corpulent gentleman with a four day stubble growth.

"Go it, Frankie! You ain't art done yet. Eight years ago!"

"Eight!" interrupted a shrill voice from the cliffs above. "You'll sleep wot little sense you 'ave got away if you ain't careful. Thought you was goin' to get some whoiks for tea?"

"Eight years ago, Frankie," continued the stout gentleman, mournfully, jerking his thumb cliffward, "she was my ikle petrie!"—London Tit Bits.

Florence Nightingale.

There is a story that after the return to England of the troops from the Crimea Lord Stratford at a dinner suggested that those present should write on a piece of paper the name of the person whose Crimean reputation would endure longest. When the votes came to be examined it was found that not a single soldier had received a vote. Every paper bore the same two words—Florence Nightingale.

The "Lady With the Lamp" used to relate the following story: "Calling one day on one of her humble neighbors, she was surprised to see the usually tidy cottage in a state of great disorder. 'Why, Mrs. —,' said Miss Nightingale, 'what is wrong with you? I never saw your home looking like this.' 'Beg your pardon, miss,' said the abashed woman, 'but you see, I am expecting the visiting lady, and if she sees my place looking clean and tidy she'll think I didn't need no helpin'!"

Chihuahua Dogs.

The true Chihuahua breed is the smallest race of dogs in the world. They are also the most highly strung, sensitive and valiant of their kind. Their sense of sound, sight and smell is developed to a marvelous degree, and they have a bark which would rise supreme above the noises of a boiler shop. A strange step sets one of the little hair trigger animals into a frenzy of ear splitting rage, and yet they are so keenly intelligent that they can distinguish between friend and foe almost at first sight, sound or whiff. Long before the duller senses of man can detect a foreign presence these little marvels of nerve force will have "sized up" the intruder, and if not satisfied that all is well their staccato warning will wake the echoes.—Los Angeles Examiner.

The Ruling Passion.

Among the well known figures of the Paris salons mentioned in "An Eighteenth Century Marquise" was Bossut, mathematician and abbe, who had translated Maria Agnesi's work on the infinitesimal calculus. "When he was dying Maupertius was by his bedside. No one knew whether the agony was ended. 'Twelve times twelve' asked Maupertius in a distinct voice. 'One hundred and forty-four,' came the automatic answer as Bossut breathed his last."

Appearances.

It is the appearances that fill the scene, and we pause not to ask of what realities they are the proxies. When the actor of Athens moved all hearts as he clasped the burial urn and burst into broken sobs how few then knew that it held the ashes of his soul!—Bulwer-Lytton.

A Straight Tip.

"You can't see my husband. He is not at home."

"Well, if that's the way you want to see him you'd better sit right there on the steps until he comes from the club."—Houston Post.

A Good Bluff.
He was young and had just graduated from law school. His resources were exhausted, but he bravely swung forth his shingle and waited. But no clients stopped on that side of the street. His office rent was due, and his clothes were becoming shiny, but he went to his office with a regularity that would indicate a thriving practice. He was deep in an imaginary case, and when the authorities were all noted and arguments prepared he started forth downtown and thrashed the mayor's son, whom he met in the street. The act aroused the righteous indignation of the townsman, and he faced an angry court. But in his testimony he was able to include a sharp attack on the mayor and his administration. He quoted law from Lycurgus and Solon and gave them the page, number and chapter every time. The case was continued and sent up to a higher court. At last it reached the supreme bench, and the young man made the most of his opportunity to show his ability as a lawyer. He lost the case and paid his fine cheerfully, for he had established for himself a practice which assured his future.—Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

President Johnson's Impeachment.

The house impeached President Johnson on Nov. 25, 1867, charging him with having removed Secretary of War Stanton in direct violation of the tenure of office act, with having appointed General Thomas contrary to the same act, with conspiracy with General Thomas and others for the intimidation of Secretary Stanton and the unlawful disbursement of the war department's money and with inducing General Emory, commanding the department of Washington, to disobey orders.

The house adopted the resolution of impeachment by a vote of 126 to 42. After the trial of the case before the senate the vote for impeachment there stood 35 to 19, thus being short of the necessary two-thirds. The senate adjourned sine die, however, without voting on some of the primary articles embraced in the charges against the president. Thereupon the chief justice of the United States court entered a verdict of acquittal on the record.—New York Times.

A Great Trade Secret.

As every one knows, the process of manufacturing the paper of which Bank of England notes are made is one of the greatest of all trade secrets. It is known only to the governor of the Bank of England and to three other persons intimately connected with the industry, which is carried on at Overton, a quiet little village in Hants. All that the outside world is allowed to know concerning this precious paper is that it is made, among other ingredients, out of charred husks and Rhensish vines.

Quite as profound a secret is the manufacture of both the paper and the ink used for American banknotes. The former has the double advantage of not being a secret preparation, but one that only "takes" one particular kind of ink, which is quite unique, the American government paying the manufacturer, who alone possesses the secret, the sum of $50,000 a year for making it.—Pearson's Weekly.

How Did He Know?

Joe, the fat boy in the "Pickwick Papers," spent most of his time in slumber. He was happier that way. Probably there are a good many other people in the world a good deal like Joe, but most of them do not get the chance for sleep that he had. This scrap of conversation, recently overheard, would seem to indicate that, although this is a nervous age, the desire for sleep is not wholly dead.

"I don't feel well," remarked Smith as he took off his coat in the office, preparatory to sitting down at his desk. "The trouble with me is that I haven't slept as I should. I don't feel well unless I've slept."

"That's the same way with me," remarked his partner. "In fact, I think I feel best of all when I'm sound asleep."—Youth's Companion.

The First Oyster Eaten.

The gluttonous Vitellius is reported to have eaten 1,000 oysters at a sitting. "He was a very valiant man who first ventured on eating of oysters," King James was wont to declare, a sentiment echoed by the poet Gay.

The man had sure a palate covered o'er With brass or steel that on the rocky shore First broke the oozy oyster's pearly coat And risked the living morsel down his throat.

Trying to Help.

Hotel Clerk (to rural guest closing front entrance)—Hey, there! What are you trying to do? Uncle Eben—Don't git excited, young fellow! I jes' thought, seeing as how I was probly the last one in tonight, I'd do the right thing and lock the doors fore going to bed!—Puck.

Matter of Intelligence.

Mrs. Suburbs—John, did you call at the intelligence office today to inquire about a maid of all work? Suburbs—Yes, my dear. Mrs. Suburbs—Couldn't you find one? Suburbs—Oh, yes; I found a dozen, but they were all too intelligent to come out to this place.—Chicago News.

No Necessity.

Perdida (at the candy pulling)—Where do we wash our hands? Myrtilla—Oh, we don't have to do that. Pulling the candy makes them beautifully white and clean.—Chicago Tribune.

Make not thy friends too cheap to thee not thyself to thy friends.—Fulter.

Under the Orator's Spell.

Justice Brewer was once speaking of the oratory of John B. Gough. "I would go home after hearing his eloquence thoroughly stated, but when my father or mother asked me what Gough had said I could not tell them for the life of me. I remember once at a Yale commencement along in the fifties, about the time that I was graduated there, an incident illustrating the force of personal magnetism. Gough was to deliver an oration. He spoke, of course, on temperance. There was a distinguished audience. On the stage were many of the venerable, notable men in New Haven of that day. A large space was clear about the table, for Gough liked to walk back and forth as he talked. He described how a drunkard had beaten his wife and came to his climax with: 'Any man who would kick a woman ought to be kicked out of the universe!'

"He emphasized his words with a vigorous thrust of one foot, whereof every person on the stage, intensely wrought up by the orator, likewise kicked outward as did Gough."—Kansas City Journal.

When Tabby Raises Her Battle Cry.

Despite the cat's softness, laziness, dullness and purring amiability, her piercing wavery in the night startles and exasperates us beyond all bearing—not by its loudness, but by a certain vicious, weird, half terrifying, half infuriating note in it that makes us spring to arms with the bootjack or other substitute for the boomerang, as the war-whoop of our tribal enemies did a century or centuries ago, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Success Magazine.

One of Mark Twain's wise old frontiersmen had caught this note when he explained to the tenderfoot that an imal speech had rules of composition and grammar, just like human speech, and that "the reason a cat riles ye so ain't on account of the noise she makes, but on account of the sickening bad grammar she uses." And he was right, for the grammar of scarp lifting and the whole alphabet of battle, murder and sudden death tangles and screams in the rasping cry.

Two Can Play.

"Walter," called the irate diner, "there seems to be a dollar on this bill I can't account for."

"Oh, that's just a joke, sir," apologized the waiter, "just a bet the cashier and I have. I'll have it fixed right away, sir."

"What do you mean about a bet?" asked the diner, detaining him.

"Well, sir, I bet the cashier 50 cents you would see the mistake, and he bet you wouldn't, so I win, sir."

"Suppose I hadn't noticed it?"

"He'd have got the dollar, sir."

"Oh, I see. Give me your pencil."

And he wrote a few lines on the back of the bill, folded it up and handed it to the waiter. "Take that to the cashier."

The waiter leaned over the cashier's shoulder as he unfolded the paper. It read:

"I'll bet you $5 that when you send this back you don't find me."

And they didn't.—Lippincott's.

Practical Help.

"Mister," whined the mendicant with the wooden leg, "can't you help a poor old sailor wot has had his leg bitten off by a shark?"

"Dear me!" exclaimed the kind hearted professor. "I believe I can, my poor man. Come around to the college."

After hobbling along for ten blocks the professor led the way through an iron gate and up to his study.

"Here you are, my poor man. Now, don't say I never gave you anything."

The beggar almost toppled over with astonishment.

"W-what's that, sir?"

"Why, that's my latest book on 'Sharks and Their Ways.' If you have that book with you when you fall overboard next time you won't lose the other leg. You'll know just how to dodge them. Good day."—Chicago News.

Earliest Theater.

What was probably one of the earliest theaters built was the theater of Dionysus, which was begun five centuries before Christ. The seating capacity of this remarkable building is said to have been 30,000, nearly four times that of our largest amusement palace. The theater of Dionysus was erected when Greek art and literature were in their prime. Here were presented to appreciative spectators the wonderful works of Aeschylus, Sophocles and Euripides.

A Sickly Diary.

"Look here, old chap, I'll give you a valuable tip," said the experienced married man to the prospective bridegroom. "Don't let your wife keep a diary on the honeymoon. My wife did that, and now whenever we quarrel she brings it out and reads some of the idiotic things I said to her then."

A Serious Joke.

"What has happened to Mr. White, who used to be such a joker?"

"Well, he proposed to his present wife as a joke. She accepted him, and he has been given up making jokes ever since."—Dorffbarber.

Receiving.

Mr. Closecogne, during his wife's reception—She gives 'em lights, she gives 'em music, she gives 'em food, flowers, champagne, and that's what she calls receiving.—London Tit-Bits.

$1000

"I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for the good VINOL has done me. I was told that Cod Liver Oil was the medicine I needed for my weakened condition and poor blood. I could not take the greasy mixture, and when our druggist told me that VINOL contained not only tonic iron but all the medicinal properties of Cod Liver Oil without the grease or oil or bad taste, I made up my mind that was the medicine for me. I tried it and to-day am strong and well."

Collar as a Verb.

The verb "collar" has long been used transitively, meaning to "seize or take hold of a person by the collar; more loosely, to capture." The verb was thus employed early in the seventeenth century. Steele in the Guardian, No. 84, wrote, "If you advised him not to collar any man." Other instances are Gentleman's Magazine, 1762, "His lordship collared the footman who threw it," and Marryat's sentence in "Peter Simple," "He was collared by two French soldiers."

A Tenant For Life.

"Have you boarded long at this house?" inquired the new boarder of the sour, dejected man sitting next to him.

"About ten years."

"I don't see how you can stand it. Why haven't you left long ago?"

"No other place to go," said the other dismally. "The landlady's my wife."

Scott Funeral is Largely Attended

Friends Pay Last Respects to Remains of Well Known Young Woman.

Attended by many friends and acquaintances of the deceased the funeral of Nelle Irene Scott, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Scott, of Fallowfield avenue, was held yesterday afternoon from the home. Because of the terrible suffering through which the deceased young woman had passed and because of the immense popularity when in life and health, the funeral was an especially sad one. Rev. I. N. Frye, former pastor of the First Christian church, conducted the services and was assisted by Rev. V. G. Hostetter, the present pastor. Interment followed the services at the Monongahela cemetery. The pallbearers were Frank Ingold, Charles S. Van Voorhis, John W. Cornell, Ed. J. Krahmer, Dale Jolliffe and E. C. Drum. Numerous floral tributes to the dead were laid on the bier.

The services began on Sunday evening and last evening Rev. Reiter spoke on the topic, "The Other Wise Man." CHRISTMAS CANTATA IS WELL RENDERED

Sunday School of First Presbyterian Church Gives "Santa's Mixup."

Santa Claus and his coterie of assistants got very much mixed up with their baskets to be distributed at various places at the First Presbyterian church last night. The cantata "Santa's Mixup" was rendered under the direction of Prof. I. T. Daniel, and it was one of the finest affairs of the kind ever seen in Charleroi. The argument of the cantata briefly told, was that there were two baskets of turkeys, one basket containing a baby and one a dinner for a poor family to be distributed. Through mistakes the sexton of the church who was to receive a turkey got the baby, and Santa Claus got into trouble with a basket containing the turkey, accidentally substituted for the baby. Other interesting mix-ups resulted. The cantata was witnessed by a crowded house.

Home Treatment for Tuberculosis

Many people have cured themselves of Tuberculosis by a very simple, inexpensive home method—fresh air, careful diet and Eckman's Alternative. This Alternative is not a new medicine. It has been conquering tuberculosis for several years, cures resulting after other methods have failed. Think what this means. No specialist's fee; no sanatorium charges; no traveling expenses. Eckman's Alternative has cured many people at home, where their dear ones encourage them and give them that tender care which money cannot buy. After you have thoroughly investigated our affidavits and testimonials—feeling sure in your own mind that if Eckman's Alternative has cured so many others, it surely must help you—start taking the Alternative. Your improvement should be gradual, but certain. If you have been faithful to Eckman's Alternative, you will be amazed at your improvement. A statement from one who knows follows: Gentlemen: I was troubled with cough, which gradually became worse. I had night sweats and appetite and had been so thin and weak I could not attend to my household duties. A physician pronounced my case Consumption. Not being satisfied, I was examined by the physicians of the Poly-clinic Hospital; they also pronounced the disease Consumption, which was found, as Tuberculosis. Each of us found, I was ordered to a Consumptive Hospital. My nephew would not allow me to go until I had tried Eckman's Alternative. Before I had taken the medicine three weeks I had marked relief; night sweats ceased; pain in the breast fever left me and I became more and more well. My health became normal, and in excellent health now and have been for several years. For additional evidence, for testimonials, and leading druggists and (Signed) (MRS.) MARY WASSON. Ex-Agent Is Sentenced People Injured by Falls Many Christmas Fires

FORMER CHARLEROI INSURANCE MAN IS SENTENCED TO WORKHOUSE TERM

John Boden Enters Plea and is Sent to Workhouse for Period of Ten Months.

EMBEZZLEMENT ALLEGED

Charged With Skipping With $700 of Funds From the Charleroi Office—Captured in Chicago Recently.

John S. Boden, a former agent for the Prudential insurance company, located at Charleroi, and engaged in his work along the river, where he was well known, entered a plea of guilty yesterday to the charge of embezzlement as an employee. He was sentenced to pay the costs, fine of $100 and to undergo imprisonment in the workhouse at Claremont for a period of 10 months. Boden asked that the court make the sentence a penitentiary sentence, but this request the court refused.

Judge Taylor remarked to the defendant that the court was of the opinion that he, the defendant, should be sent somewhere where he could work. The defendant stated he only made the request because he was crippled. The court stated that at Claremont he could get lots of outdoor exercise.

At the time Boden left Charleroi he was an assistant superintendent for the Prudential company. He is a married man, has children and ran away with an actress, with whom he had become infatuated. After several months he was arrested in Chicago, where he was working as an elevated railway conductor. He was living under the name of "George W. Gale." The woman with whom he ran away was living with him. He was located through the Gogrove detective agency and was brought back from Chicago on December 9 by County Detective William McCleary.

Boden embezzled about $700 of the insurance company's money. He left Charleroi early in 1909. He went direct to Chicago. He first sold cheap jewelry for a living then went on the elevated line. He shaved off a mustache and wore a heavy dark wig to conceal his bald head.

The actress with whom he was living, bore a very unsavory reputation. She came from the McKeesport section, and it was by shadowing her to McKeesport, where she returned on a visit, that a clue was secured that finally located Boden. Boden has two married sons at Johnstown.

From what can be learned, Boden has not been in trouble before, and he claims his downfall was due to having been led away by the actress.

SEVERAL PERSONS ARE HURT BY FALLS ON ICE

Slippery Pavements Result in Injury to Number of Charleroi People During Saturday and Sunday

Icy pavements were responsible for several persons being laid up with injuries Saturday and Sunday. Some were very seriously hurt by falls.

One of the most seriously hurt was Miss Grace Phillips, of North Charleroi, who after a fall on last Friday evening did not recover her right mind until last night. Seemingly rational enough up until that time she could not remember anything previous to the accident.

Fred Smith sustained a badly injured head in a fall and it was at first thought that his skull was fractured. He will recover.

Miss Irene Kimmell, daughter of Dr. D. E. Kimmell, fell Saturday night and was injured somewhat. An unknown woman of foreign descent fell Sunday at the corner of Fifth street and Fallowfield avenue, and cut her head severely.

Mrs. Orr of Ninth street and Oakland avenue, fell and broke her right arm.

ELABORATE CHRISTMAS PROGRAMS ARE RENDERED

Charleroi Churches Hold Special Holiday Services.

Candy Distributed by Various Sunday Schools—Among Their Pupils.

Christmas was quietly observed by Charleroi people, and church services were features. In all the churches programs more or less elaborate were carried out, manifesting the sentiment of the day. Treats were distributed to children of the various schools.

The most elaborate program was rendered at the First Presbyterian church last evening when a cantata "Santa's Mixup" was produced. Children of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school gave a Christmas entertainment last night and received their treat.

A cantata, "Blessed Morn," was rendered at Christ Lutheran church Sunday evening and the treat was given. The treat at the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church was given on Saturday evening, and on Sunday evening Christmas was commemorated with a special song service. The treat at the First Baptist church was given on Saturday afternoon and Rev. Joshua the pastor preached two Christmas sermons on Sunday. Services at St. Jerome's Catholic church were featured by four masses, at 5:30, at 7:30, at 9 and at 10:30 o'clock. The treat was given to the children in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Sunday morning a special musical program was rendered by the choir of St. Mary's Episcopal church. Special masses were held at Mother of Sorrows' Italian Catholic church. The

FIRES IN COUNTY AND VICINITY WORK DAMAGE DURING HOLIDAYS

WANTS RAILROAD TO RETURN CASH FARES

Bunola Man May Bring Suit Against Pittsburg and Lake Erie as Result of Alleged Violation of Agreement

The Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad company filed suit yesterday against G. W. Peterson of Bunola, Pa., asking for an injunction to prevent him from bringing suit against the company for the recovery of cash fares paid by him while being hauled as a passenger. It is alleged since last March 8 actions were brought by Peterson and that he secured judgment. The amounts involved are so small that the company cannot appeal.

It is stated that in 1899 Peterson entered into an agreement with the McKeesport and Belle Vernon Railroad company, that in consideration of $1, the road agreed to carry him free over its lines. It is admitted that Peterson exhibited this agreement to the conductors, but that a cash fare was demanded. The company alleged that the agreement is now void. The plaintiff took over the lines of the road which made the agreement with Peterson.

Sunnyside Distillery near Monongahela Suffers From Flames of an Unknown Origin.

VILLAGE IS WIPED OUT

Three Hundred People Rendered Homeless by Conflagration at Riverville—Bentleyville Store Burns.

Mystery surrounds the origin of a fire which destroyed the main building of the Sunnyside distillery at Elrama, this county, early Monday morning. The destroyed building was a four story brick structure, 150 feet long and 30 feet wide. It contained the distilling department, renovating rooms, bonding room, boiler and engine rooms. The flames were prevented from reaching an office building and ware house which contained a large amount of distilled liquor. The fire started on the third floor of the building. The distilling company is controlled by Howe Bros. of Cincinnati, and the building is leased from Charles H. Jacobs. The loss is well covered by insurance. A member of the firm is expected to arrive from Cincinnati and the question of rebuilding the plant will probably be taken up at that time.

Riverville, a mining hamlet half a mile from Fredricktown was completely wiped out by fire Sunday and 800 people rendered homeless. Twelve double houses, 12 single ones and two large dwellings were destroyed, inflicting a loss of about $30,000. The fire is thought to have caught from a Christmas tree in one of the houses. The miners living in the hamlet were employed at one of the mines of the Vesta Coal company in the vicinity.

Fire at 2 o'clock Saturday morning of last week entirely destroyed the building and stock of clothing and shoes of Cortwell and Krapan, Main street, Bentleyville, with a loss of $6,000. An insurance of $3,000 was carried on the goods. Andrew Krull, who owned the building, had $1,400 insurance on it and $500 on the household goods. The building was valued at $2,000 and the stock at $6,000.

The other two are being held for a hearing later.

BOYS SKATE AT RESERVOIR

Charleroi Water Company to Get After Youngsters Who Violate Rule

The Charleroi Water company, troubled by boys skating on the ice covering the water in the reservoir on the crest of the Fifth street hill, has given notice that prosecutions will follow trespassing hereafter on the property there. The ice is very strong and should a boy fall through, while skating, he would have little chance for life but would be sucked under and inward by the pipes reaching to the mains.

El Capitan Minstrels Open Engagement Here

Two shows will be given tonight and tomorrow night at 7:30 and 8:30 o'clock. The company carries seven people and their songs and jokes are the latest that are going the rounds. In addition to the minstrel show Manager Penman will present three films each evening of moving pictures.

French Presbyterian Sunday school gave a special Christmas service Sunday evening, together with a treat to the children. The treat was given to the children at the Christian church Sunday morning.

Monday there were two dances at the Bank of Charleroi hall, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. Theatres were open and had capacity houses. Many people went out of town for the day.

Well Known Couple Are Quietly Wedded

Quietly going to Monongahela to the home of Rev. W. G. Carl pastor of the Central Baptist church, Christmas Day, Miss Cora Hott, the well known and popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hott, of McKeesport, and Walter Jock, also of this place, were married. The couple left shortly afterward for Hagerstown, Md., where they will visit briefly before returning to take up their residence here.

Both the bride and the groom belong to well known families. The groom is employed at the Leile Campbell company, clothiers.

Notice

Trespassing is strictly forbidden on the Charleroi Water company's property at the reservoir and any violation will be followed by prosecutions. 1181 Charleroi Water Company.

Assemblyman - Elect Feeney One of Miners' Tellers.

COUNTING TO BEGIN SOON
Indications Point to Election of White Over Lewis for Presidency.

Assemblyman-elect Wm. Feeney leaves tonight for Indianapolis where as one of the national tellers elected last year he will help canvass the vote of the United Mine Workers cast at the recent election. There are three national tellers, and it so happened that all were chosen from Pennsylvania. Besides Mr. Feeney, who was elected from the Pittsburg district, are Wm. Young of central Pennsylvania and Wm. Fitzsimmons of the anthracite regions. Mr. Feeney is the first candidate to be elected to a national office from the Pittsburg district by the United Mine Workers. At the election last year he received 54,900 votes. He is a candidate for re-election, and in all probability has been elected as his name was second in the list of candidates who were voted for at the recent election.

The result of the election will not be announced until the national convention of United Mine Workers at Columbus, Ohio, on January 17. Every indication points to the election of White, Hays and Green, respectively as president, vice president and secretary-treasurer. Mr. Feeney expect to finish up his work at Indianapolis in time to return to Harrisburg at the opening of the Legislative session, January 12.

Councilman Charles Schmieler and family took a trip to Pittsburg yesterday where they visited friends.

Nobody Looney

Christmas has come and gone and if your purse is much lighter because of the holiday, your heart should also be in the same condition. No regrets should follow this spendthrift season. You failed to count the cost before Christmas—you should not do it afterward. If you succeeded in making any one who is near and dear to you happy, the results is well worth the price paid. Self denial and sacrifice afterward in meeting the obligations incurred by judicious Christmas giving is a part of the pleasure of the giver.

The mild species of insanity that pervades the Christmas season should not be taken seriously. Nobody is really looney, but the spirit of liberality and recklessness that is so contagious at this particular time of the year is not permanent. It is a sort of intoxication from which the average person speedily recovers, and unlike some other forms of intoxication, the after effects are not pernicious. Instead they inspire the human heart and mind with better and noble instincts and inspirations, which serves to propagate and spread the gospel of love that is to make the whole world skin. The Christmas madness harms nobody and it spreads joy and happiness throughout the length and breadth of the land.

Give Him a Chance

Not a few of the newspapers of Pennsylvania have been fairly busy since the recent election giving advice and in other ways tendering liberally any assistance at their command to Governor-elect John K. Tener in whatever work he may have to perform in constructing his cabinet.
Unhappily the editors of the State seidom get together when an important work is to be disposed of, and should Mr. Tener turn to the newspapers as a guide, his conclusion in regard to his cabinet would be bewildered by the confusion of suggestions.

Naturally the editors of the State are deeply concerned in every action taken or to be taken by the incoming Governor and fortunately the great majority of these Republicans have absolute confidence in the judgment and sound horse sense of the new Governor. They are, therefore, abundantly willing to have him select his own cabinet.

Citizens loyal to Pennsylvania will

in the very nature of things be loyal to the incoming Governor just as they have been faithful with Gov. Edwin
S. Stuart, the retiring Governor.
Those who know Mr. Tener best are quickest to endorse him as capable, sincere and abundantly able to take up the State's responsibilities where they are laid down by Gov. Stuart.
Governor-elect Tener is young and ambitious. He realizes that as Governor of one of the greatest States in the Union he will be constantly in the lime-light. He knows that he must excel or retire from his exalted position in the State to certain obscure. Therefore he should have a free hand in selecting his official family as the conduct of each individual member of his cabinet will be his own personal responsibility. Just give the new Governor a chance and he is certain to do the rest and do that rest well.

Protection Needed

The sinking of a portion of a manufacturing plant at the county seat into an abandoned coal mine, calls attention to an economic subject that has heretofore been neglected by this State. This is taking steps to protect the surface of land that has been undermined for coal.

Much damage has been done in various mining sections of the State and large areas of land have been rendered worthless and unproductive by the ground sinking and being broken up where the coal has been mined from underneath it. Other countries, Germany, for example, compels mining operators to put back the refuse from the mines into the abandoned cavities, in order to protect the surface of the land. So great has been the damage done in this State from this cause that the Republican State platform adopted at Harrisburg last June recommended that an investigation of the subject be made with authority and that a remedy be provided.
It is an important subject and should command public attention.

sank about ten feet, incurring much

The Dinner Table of Old France.

Could we restore for half an hour the dinner table of old France and obtain half a dozen instantaneous photographs of a royal banquet at any era between the reign of Francis I.
and Louis XIV. such laughter would be heard as might assure the serenity of Louis in paradise. The duchess, her napkin tied securely around her neck, would be seen nibbling a bone, the noble marquis surreptitiously scratching himself, the belle marquise withdrawing her spoon from her lips to help a neighbor to sauce with it, another fair creature scouring her plate with her bread, a gallant courtier using his doublet or the tablecloth as a sowel for his fingers and two footmen holding a yard of damask under a lady's chin while she emptied her goblet at a draft. All of these at one era or another were the usages of polite society. During a feast of inordinate length it was sometimes necessary to substitute a clean cloth for the one which the carelessness or bad manners of the guests had reduced to a deplorable condition.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Transformation.

They sat hand in hand on the yellow sands, in the shelter of a bowlder, watching the fleecy vapors creep unobtrusively shoreward.

"Frankie," she sighed, "say I'm one fickle petrie once more."

"Oo's my fickle petrie, blessums fickle heart," came from the youth in the pace socks.

Up to the blue heavens rose a fat gullfaw from the other side of the bowlder.

"Fickle petrie! fickle petrie!" chuk-kied a comely gentleman with a four day stubble growth.

"Go it, Frankie! You ain't art done
yet. Eight years ago!"

"Eury," interrupted a shrill voice from the cliffs above. "You'll sleep not little sense you 'ave got away if you ain't careful. Thought you was going to get some wheiks for tea?"

"Eight years ago, Frankie," continued the stout gentleman, mournfully, jerking his thumb cliffward, "she was my fickle petrie!"—London Tit-Bits.

Florence Nightingale.

There is a story that after the return to England of the troops from the Crimea Lord Stratford at a dinner suggested that those present should write on a piece of paper the name of the person whose Crimean reputation would endure longest. When the votes came to be examined it was found that not a single soldier had received a vote. Every paper bore the same two words—Florence Nightingale.

The "Lady With the Lamp" used to relate the following story: "Calling one day on one of her humble neighbors, she was surprised to see the usually tidy cottage in a state of great disorder. "Why, Mrs. —," said Miss Nightingale, "what is wrong with you?
I never saw your home looking like this." "Beg your pardon, miss," said the abashed woman, "but you see, I am expecting the visiting lady, and I she said my place looking clean and tidy she'd think I didn't need no helpin'!"

Chihuahua Dogs.

The true Chihuahua breed is the smallest race of dogs in the world.
They are also the most highly strung, sensitive and valiant of their kind.
Their sense of sound, sight and smell is developed to a marvellous degree, and they have a bark which would rise supreme above the noises of a boiler shop. A strange step sets one of the little hair trigger animals into a frenzy of ear splitting race, and yet they are so keenly intelligent that they can distinguish between friend and foe almost at first sight, sound or whiff.
Long before the duller senses of man can detect a foreign presence these little marvels of nerve force will have "sized up" the intruder, and if not satisfied that all is well their staccato warning will wake the echoes.—Los Angeles Examiner.

The Ruling Passion.

Among the well known figures of the Paris salons mentioned in "An Eighteenth Century Marquise" was Bossut, mathematician and abbe, who had translated Maria Agnesi's work on the infinitesimal calculus. "When he was dying Maupertius was by his bedside. No one knew whether the agony was ended. Twelve times twelve?
asked Maupertius in a distinct voice.
"One hundred and forty-four," came the automatic answer as Bossut breathed his last."

Appearances.

It is the appearances that fill the scene, and we pause not to ask of what realities they are the proxies.
When the actor of Athens moved all hearts as he clasped the burial urn and burst into broken sobs how few then knew that it held the ashes of his son!—Bulwer-Lytton.

A Straight Tip.

"You can't see my husband. He is not at home."

"But, madam, I want to see him the worst way."

"Well, if that's the way you want to see him you'd better sit right there on the steps until he comes from the club."—Houston Post.

Infantile Depravity.

A Good Stuff.
He was young and had just graduated from law school. His resources were exhausted, but he bravely swung forth his shingle and waited. But no clients stopped on that side of the street. His office rent was due, and his clothes were becoming shabby, but he went to his office with a regularity that would indicate a thriving practice. He was deep in an imaginary case, and when the authorities were all noted and arguments prepared he started forth downtown and thrashed the mayor's son, whom he met in the street. The act aroused the righteous indignation of the townsmen, and he faced an angry court. But in his testimony he was able to include a sharp attack on the mayor and his administration. He quoted law from Lycurgus and Solon and gave them the page, number and chapter every time. The case was continued and sent up to a higher court. At last it reached the supreme bench, and the young man made the most of his opportunity to show his ability as a lawyer. He lost the case and paid his fine cheerfully, for he had established for himself a practice which assured his future.—Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

President Johnson's Impeachment.
The house impeached President Johnson on Nov. 25, 1867, charging him with having removed Secretary of War Stanton in direct violation of the tenure of office act, with having appointed General Thomas contrary to the same act, with conspiracy with General Thomas and others for the intimidation of Secretary Stanton and the unlawful disbursement of the war department's money and with inducing General Emory, commanding the department of Washington, to disobey orders.

The house adopted the resolution of impeachment by a vote of 126 to 42. After the trial of the case before the senate the vote for impeachment there stood 35 to 19, thus being short of the necessary two-thirds. The senate adjourned sine die, however, without voting on some of the primary articles embraced in the charges against the president. Thereupon the chief justice of the United States court entered a verdict of acquittal on the record.—New York Times.

A Great Trade Secret.
As every one knows, the process of manufacturing the paper of which Bank of England notes are made is one of the greatest of all trade secrets. It is known only to the governor of the Bank of England and to three other persons intimately connected with the industry, which is carried on at Overton, a quiet little village in Hants. All that the outside world is allowed to know concerning this precious paper is that it is made, among other ingredients, out of charred husks and Rhenish vines.

Quite as profound a secret is the manufacture of both the paper and the ink used for American banknotes. The former has the double advantage of not being a secret preparation, but one that only "takes" one particular kind of ink, which is quite unique, the American government paying the manufacturer, who alone possesses the secret, the sum of $50,000 a year for making it.—Pearson's Weekly.

How Did He Know?
Joe, the fat boy in the "Pickwick Papers," spent most of his time in slumber. He was happier that way. Probably there are a good many other people in the world a good deal like Joe, but most of them do not get the chance for sleep that he had. This scrap of conversation, recently overheard, would seem to indicate that, although this is a nervous age, the desire for sleep is not wholly dead. "I don't feel well," remarked Smith as he took off his coat in the office, preparatory to sitting down at his desk. "The trouble with me is that I haven't slept as I should. I don't feel well unless I've slept."

"That's the same way with me," remarked his partner. "In fact, I think I feel best of all when I'm sound asleep."—Youth's Companion.

The First Oyster Eater.
The gluttonous Vitellus is reported to have eaten 1,000 oysters at a sitting. "He was a very valiant man who first ventured on eating of oysters," King James was wont to declare, a sentiment echoed by the poet Gay: The man had sure a palate covered o'er With brass or steel that on the rocky shore First broke the oozy oyster's pearly coat And risked the living morsel down his throat.

Trying to Help.
Hotel Clerk (to rural guest closing front entrance)—Hey, there! What are you trying to do? Uncle Eben—Don't get excited, young fellow! I just thought, seeing as how I was probably the last one in tonight, I'd do the right thing and lock the doors 'fore going to bed!—Puck.

Matter of Intelligence.
Mrs. Suburbs—John, did you call at the intelligence office today to inquire about a maid of all work? Suburbs—Yes, my dear. Mrs. Suburbs—Couldn't you find one? Suburbs—Oh, yes; I found a dozen, but they were all too intelligent to come out to this place.—Chicago News.

No Necessity.
Terence put the candy punning: Where do we wash our hands? Myrilla—Oh, we don't have to do that. Pulling the candy makes them beautifully white and clean.—Chicago Tribune.

Make not thy friends too cheap to thee not thyself to thy friends.—Pulter.

Under the Orator's Spell.
Justice Brewer was once speaking of the oratory of John F. Gough. "I would go home after hearing his eloquence thoroughly elated, but when my father or mother asked me what Gough had said I could not tell them for the life of me. I remember once at a Yale commencement along in the fifties, about the time that I was graduated there, an incident illustrating the force of personal magnetism. Gough was to deliver an oration. He spoke, of course, on temperance. There was a distinguished audience. On the stage were many of the venerable, notable men in New Haven at that day. A large space was clear about the table, for Gough liked to walk back and forth as he talked. He described how a drunkard had beaten his wife and came to his climax with: 'Any man who would kick a woman ought to be kicked out of the universe.'"

"He emphasized his words with a vigorous thrust of one foot, wherein every person on the stage, intensely wrought up by the orator, likewise kicked outward as did Gough."—Kansas City Journal.

When Tabby Raises Her Battle Cry.
Despite the cat's softness, laziness, dullness and purring amiability, her piercing wailing in the night startles and exasperates us beyond all bearing—not by its loudness, but by a certain vicious, weird, half-terrifying, half-inflaming note in it that makes us spring to arms with the bootjack or other substitute for the boomerang, as the warwhoop of our tribal enemies did a century or centuries ago, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Success Magazine.

Two Can Play.
"Waiter," called the irate diner, "there seems to be a dollar on this bill I can't account for."
"Oh, that's just a joke, sir," apologized the waiter, "just a bet the cashier and I have. I'll have it fixed right away, sir."
"What do you mean about a bet?" asked the diner, detaining him.
"Well, sir, I bet the cashier 50 cents you would see the mistake, and he bet you wouldn't, so I win, sir."
"Suppose I hadn't noticed it?"
"He'd have got the dollar, sir."
"Oh, I see. Give me your pencil." And he wrote a few lines on the back of the bill, folded it up and handed it to the waiter. "Take that to the cashier."

The waiter leaned over the cashier's shoulder as he unfolded the paper. It read:
"I'll bet you $5 that when you send this back you don't find me."
And they didn't.—Lippincott's.

Practical Help.
"Mister," whined the mendicant with the wooden leg, "can't you help a poor old sailor who has had his leg bitten off by a shark?"
"Dear me!" exclaimed the kind hearted professor. "I believe I can, my poor man. Come around to the college."
After hobbling along for ten blocks the professor led the way through an iron gate and up to his study.
"Here you are, my poor man. Now, don't say I never gave you anything."
The beggar almost toppled over with astonishment.
"What's that, sir?"
"Why, that's my latest book on 'Sharks and Their Ways.' If you have that book with you when you fall overboard next time you won't lose the other leg. You'll know just how to dodge them. Good day."—Chicago News.

Earliest Theater.
What was probably one of the earliest theaters built was the theater of Dionysus, which was begun five centuries before Christ. The seating capacity of this remarkable building is said to have been 30,000, nearly four times that of our largest amusement palace. The theater of Dionysus was erected when Greek art and literature were in their prime. Here were presented to appreciative spectators the wonderful works of Aeschylus, Sophocles and Euripides.

A Sickly Diary.
"Look here, old chap, I'll give you a valuable tip," said the experienced married man to the prospective bridegroom. "Don't let your wife keep a diary on the honeymoon. My wife did that, and now whenever we quarrel she brings it out and reads some of the idiotic things I said to her then."

A Serious Joke.
"What has happened to Mr. White, who used to be such a joker?"
"Well, he proposed to his present wife as a joke. She accepted him, and he has given up making jokes ever since."—Dorlandier.

Receiving.
Mr. Closecorse, during his wife's reception—She gives em liquors, she gives 'em music, she gives 'em food, flowers, champagne, and that's what she calls receiving.—London Tit-Bits.

Prepared.
Milly—Do you think widowers make good husbands? Billy—Sure. They know what's coming to them.—New York Times.

$1000
"I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for the good VINOL has done me. I was told that Cod Liver Oil was the medicine I needed for my weakened condition and poor blood. I could not take the greasy mixture, and when our druggist told me that VINOL contained not only tonic iron but all the medicinal properties of Cod Liver Oil without the grease or oil or bad taste, I made up my mind that was the medicine for me. I tried it and to-day am strong and well."

Collar as a Verb.
The verb "collar" has long been used transitively, meaning to "seize or take hold of a person by the collar; more loosely, to capture." The verb was thus employed early in the seventeenth century. Steele in the Guardian, No. 84, wrote: "If you advised him not to collar any man." Other instances are Gentlemen's Magazine, 1762, "His lordship collared the footman who threw it," and Marryat's sentence in "Peter Simple," "He was collared by two French soldiers."

A Tenant For Life.
"Have you boarded long at this house?" inquired the new boarder of the sour, dejected man sitting next to him.
"About ten years."
"I don't see how you can stand it. Why haven't you left long ago?"
"No other place to go," said the other dismally. "The landlady's my wife."

Special Inducements for Christmas

MAKE your advertisement truthful and sincere. Get a reputation for honest advertising. Don't expect patrons to rush in your store in a mob following one advertisement. The tendency of time is to have one price and do honest business. You are behind the age if you do not advertise. I don't see how any merchant can do a profitable business if he doesn't advertise.

Scott Funeral is Largely Attended

Friends Pay Last Respects to Remains of Well Known Young Woman.

Attended by many friends and acquaintances of the deceased the funeral of Nelle Irene Scott, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Scott, of Fallowfield avenue, was held yesterday afternoon from the home. Because of the terrible suffering through which the deceased young woman had passed and because of the immense popularity when in life and health, the funeral was an especially sad one. Rev. I. N. Frye, former pastor of the First Christian church, conducted the services and was assisted by Rev. V. G. Hostetter, the present pastor. Interment followed at the Monongahela cemetery. The pallbearers were Frank Ingold, Charles S. Van Voorhis, John W. Corneli, Ed. J. Krahmer, Dale Joffe and E. C. Drum. Numerous floral tributes to the dead were laid on the bier.

REVIVAL SERVICES AT W. A. CHURCH

Rev. Murray C. Reiter Will Conduct Two Weeks Meetings.

Rev. Murray C. Reiter of Canonsburg, has begun a series of revival meetings at the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church assisting Rev. G. G. Kerr the pastor. The services began on Sunday evening and last evening Rev. Reiter spoke on the topic, "The Other Wise Man." In his discourse he presented logical arguments that the Master was the one to whom we are indebted for all our manifold blessings and that in return we should render service such as would be pleasing to him.

CHRISTMAS CANTATA IS WELL RENDERED

Sunday School of First Presbyterian Church Gives "Santa's Mixup."

Santa Claus and his coterie of assistants got very much mixed up with their baskets to be distributed at various places at the First Presbyterian church last night. The cantata "Santa's Mixup" was rendered under the direction of Prof. I. T. Davis, and it was one of the finest affairs of the kind ever seen in Charleroi. The argument of the cantata briefly told, was that there were two baskets of turkeys, one basket containing a baby and one a dinner for a poor family to be distributed. Through mistakes the sexton of the church who was to receive a turkey got the baby, and Santa Claus got into trouble with a basket containing the turkey, accidentally substituted for the baby. Other interesting mix-ups resulted. The cantata was witnessed by a crowded house.

It has been conquering tuberculosis for several years, curing resulting after other methods had failed. Think what this means. No specialist's fees, no sanatorium charges, no traveling expenses. Eckman's Alternative has cured many people at home, where their dear ones encourage them and give them that tender care which money cannot buy. Your improvement should be gradual, but certain. If you have been faithful to Eckman's Alternative, you will be amazed at your improvement. A statement from one who knows follows: 229 So. 4th St., Colwyn, (Darby) Pa. Gentlemen: For four years I was troubled with cough which gradually became worse. I had night sweats and pains in my chest. I was losing my appetite and had become so thin and weak I could not attend to my household duties. A physician pronounced my case Consumption. Not being satisfied, I was examined by the physicians of the Polyclinic Hospital they also pronounced the disease Consumption, which was proven later, by an examination of my sputum as Tuberculosis Bacilli was found. I was ordered to a Consumptive Hospital. My nephew would not allow me to go until I had tried Eckman's Alternative. Before I had tried the medicine three weeks I had marked improvement. My cough became loose and easy; fever left me and I commenced getting well. A healthy became normal. I am in excellent health now and have been completely cured for ten years. I could not recall your name. (Signed) (MRS.) MARY WASSON. Eckman's Alternative cures Bronchitis, Tuberculosis, Croup, Throat and Lung diseases.
